

PATRIOT ANCESTORS FROM CUBA

The refugees and immigrants from Cuba are some of the most interesting people to the Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) because the Cuban ancestors of these new Americans fought at Mobile, Pensacola, Central America, in the Bahamas, and were preparing to invade Jamaica when the Revolutionary War was ended by events in Europe.

Spanish records for the Revolutionary War period (June 1779 until Sep 1783) are among the best of the surviving records. Records of service were kept in bundles (called legajos) for each unit, and some have been published for the key persons in each unit. (The persons so listed would be called “the cadre” by those with experience in the American Army. They could be sent to form and train a new group as a unit.) The legajo lists the service of the person from first enlistment to the assignment at the time of the legajo. Most of the legajos were for the post war period, and they are included below through 1800. The records for 1765 were considered too early and the ones for 1809 and 1814 were considered too late. Only by studying the legajo or some other record of the time can one determine if the person was in service during the war.

In the following listing, asterisks are given for those known to be in service, but others may also be identified in service by careful study of the legajos or from other records or rosters. The units in Cuba were associated with certain localities or names to include: America, probably near Havana; Cuatro Villas, probably eastern Cuba; Cuba y Bayamo; Havana; Matanzas; Puerte Principe; Santiago de Cuba; and Trinidad. The legajos associated with Cuba are 7259, 7260, 7261, 7262, 7263, 7264, and 7265. Part of 7259 is from 1765 and considered too early. 7265 is from 1809 through 1815 and is considered too late.

The historian, Allan J. Kuenthe, listed the family surnames most frequently encountered as wartime leaders in the Cuban militia as Agramonte, Agüero, Arango, Armenteros, Arrendondo, Barerra, Basabe, Beitia, Beltrán, Boza, Caballero, Calvo de la Puerta, Camacho, Cárdenas, Castillo (of Havana), Castillo (of Puerte Principe), Chacón, Chavarria, Cisneros, Coca, Cruz, Duarte, Escobar, Ferrer, Hernández, Herrera, Jústiz, Lopez Silvero, Menocal, Meyreles, Miranda, Molina, Montalvo, Morales, Mustelier, Núñez, O’Farrill, Peñalver, Pita, Porlier, Pozo, Quesada, Sánchez, Santa Cruz, Socarrás, Sotolongo, Torre, Vásquez, Velasco, Zaldivar, Zayas (of Havana), Zayas (of Puerto Principe), and Zequera. Most of these names appear below.

PATRIOT ANCESTORS FROM CUBA (Part 2, F-J)

This continues the listing of Cuban Patriots who served during the period of Jun 1779 until Sep 1783. For more information, and the A-E listing, see the February 2006 Somos Primos.

This listing is made for the benefit of those who descend from the soldiers or other patriots listed and who wish to join the Sons of the American Revolution. The author, Granville W. Hough, is available at gwhough@oakapple.net to assist those who wish to join that organization.

One might ask how one can access the records in Cuba which would be most helpful. The first answer is that this listing can be downloaded and saved for the future. I can assure anyone that Fidel Castro will not be an impediment to research, on-site, in Cuba, forever. I am his age and know he is just as mortal as I. The second answer is that it may now be possible to hire researchers in Cuba to go into the archives and find what you need. I do not know who has tried that approach. It should work just as well in Cuba as in the United States, Mexico, or Spain. Genealogy is non-political, or always has been, in my experience.

Additional references for this part of the listing are now included in the overall reference listings.

Comments: This is about one-third of the soldiers from Cuba who are listed in the particular references being used. The others will follow later. As author, I would like to make three comments. I will be glad to help anyone with advice on how to join the Sons of the American Revolution, and I can be reached by internet at gwhough@oakapple.net. The second comment is Captains and above in rank usually have more than 20 years service by 1800 and would qualify as Patriots. They have an asterisk. For those who can trace to a lower ranking ancestor who is listed but has no asterisk, those may be soldiers who were too young, or joined too late, after Sep 1783. What we have found is that the young cadets, subLieutenants, Distinguished Soldiers, etc were usually sons of older soldiers who were actually in service through the entire war. We have left most of them on the list as a guide to those who are searching. If you know you descend from a person without an asterisk, and find that person joined too late, then look for the parents of that person.

The third comment is that the only way I know to access the records is to go to an LDS Family History Center where you can use the order numbers for the legajos and order them from Salt Lake City. When they arrive, you locate and identify the records of interest to you and copy them on the machines which nearly all Family History Centers have. (No, you will not be recruited into the LDS church, nor will you be asked to contribute to church funds. I speak from 40 years experience. You will have to pay whatever charges are normal for ordering, copying, etc; but all customers pay the same, member of the church or not. The LDS Family History Centers are an absolutely unique American contribution to worldwide genealogy.)
