Matricula de San Luis de los Pinos
Pinar del Río, Cuba
by
Peter E. Carr

The town of San Luis de los Pinos has its origins in a landgrant given to Juan de Evia (or Hevia), probably in 1632. The grant was for a place called Corral de San Luis. Although it has never been completely determined, due to lack of records, whether this was the land on which the town of San Luis was originally built, by December 15, 1641, de Evia was making a claim on the actual land.

By the early 19th century, the land passed into the hands of Nicolas Iglesias and his wife Juana Romero. At this time it is known as the Hacienda de San Luis. In 1827, a small village was begun within a great pine grove in the middle of the Hacienda.

In 1831, Juana Romero, by now a widow, donated approximately 25 acres of land, surrounding the small village, for the welfare and benefit of the local populace. The village began expanding and within a short time the chapel built in 1829 and named San Joaquín, was replaced by a larger masonry temple. On November 1, 1845, the church was made into an auxiliary of the parish of the nearby town of San Juan y Martínez.

At the insistence of the Bishop of Havana (La Habana), Francisco Felix Solans, a matricula or census of the townspeople was made in 1848 by Father Ramón Bentín. On January 1, 1879, San Luis and 407 square kilometers surrounding it became a municipio in its own right.

List of the residents of San Luis, Pinar de Río province, Cuba; taken on August 24, 1848, by Father Ramón Bentín, parish priest of San Juan y Martínez.
