

00:59:34 Diogo Salazar: <https://magenha.org/>
01:00:17 ILEANA WALLACE: Thank you.
01:01:54 Diogo Salazar: <https://www.facebook.com/magenha>
01:30:52 Yanet's iPhone: This is the response I received from MAGENHA. "Su haplogrupo A2e no es tan común en Cuba: es el 80 más frecuente, y lo portan 0.26% de los linajes maternos, según las estadísticas que tenemos (link). Su origen es nativo americano, o sea, que porta información genética sobre los nativos cubanos (o de otro lugar de América)."
01:32:40 Yanet's iPhone: Is dispensa matrimonial the same as expediente matrimonial?
01:39:21 Iris Hernandez: The link for the Bayamo digital book by Ludin Fonseca is not working.
01:41:08 Iris Hernandez: The link for the digital book - Pinal del Rio - ensayo histórico de San Luis 1879-1979 is not working.
01:51:31 Yanet's iPhone: Arzobispado La Habana
info@arzhabana.co.cu
011-537-862-4000
011-537-862-4008
01:57:12 Juan Sardina: hello i don't have the info but I have heard a lot about in facebook
01:58:04 Juan Sardina: for the Spaniards resident in Cuba that were expected to sign the treaty when Cuba became independent
01:59:39 Yanet's iPhone: Registro de pasaportes Spain to Ultramar - resource <http://188.164.195.179/index.php/062v-libro-registro-de-pasaportes-para-ultramar>
02:03:47 Yanet's iPhone: This is the source where I found the passport announcements in the 1850s (left side under ANUNCIOS). https://prensahistorica.mcu.es/es/catalogo_imagenes/grupo.do?path=1000324072&presentacion=pagina&posicion=4®istrardownload=0
02:06:29 Martha Ibañez Zervoudakis: Reacted to "This is the source w..." with 02:12:51 Diogo Salazar: What happened to the old dispensas from the 1700s?
02:14:12 Yanet's iPhone: This newspaper is also a good tool to find names. I believe it was the morning edition that noted the incoming boats and their passengers. In the evening edition they might have social events (like weddings and births). <https://dloc.com/UF00001565/03031/images/1>
02:22:20 Marisela Soto: Yanet, my grandfather was in the Spanish military service during Cuba's war of independence. After the end of the war he decided to stay in Cuba. He opened his own business in Cuba. In 1925 he travelled back to Spain, met my grandmother, married and they both travelled back to Cuba. He didn't renounce his Spanish citizenship until the 1940s.
02:27:02 Yanet's iPhone: Reacted to "Yanet, my grandfathe..." with 02:33:04 Juan Sardina: Speaking of dna, for some reason some of my matches on my mothers family are in brazil, but I don't know yet how far back. they are distant. I am guessing is through common ancestors from the Azores.
02:46:55 Martha Ibañez Zervoudakis: <https://www.cubangenclub.org/archives-spain-2/more/>
02:50:32 Diogo Salazar: Replying to "Speaking of dna, for..."
There are a lot of people with Azorian ancestry all over Brazil. I might have a couple in my tree
02:51:36 Juan Sardina: Well, there are pleitos de hidalguia. I have two from Asturian ancestors but I believe the Archive of the Audiencia of Oviedo where they were kept was destroyed in the Civil War
02:52:19 Juan Sardina: Fortunately my ancestors made their pleitos in Chile and those survived.
02:53:08 Diogo Salazar:
https://www.google.com/books/edition/Pleitos_de_hidalgu%C3%ADa_que_se_conservan_e/ExG_tjuKsMoC?hl=en&gbpv=1&pg=PA8&printsec=frontcover
02:54:01 Juan Sardina: LDS does have the actual pleitos in microfilm and some are scanned available online
02:54:56 Juan Sardina: There are books of indexes fortunately
02:55:53 Juan Sardina: Guevara and associates are coming up with an edition of ALL the pleitos they have been able to study, transcribing them, but last time I checked they were still in the Austrias
02:57:40 Juan Sardina: yes 1600s
02:57:57 Juan Sardina: Editorial Hidalguia was publishing them
02:59:03 Juan Sardina: PARES also has pleitos de hidalguia, but sometimes it is just the summary and we have to ask for the contents
02:59:16 Diogo Salazar: This is an example of a Caja:
<https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:3Q57-89PS-LLDV?mode=g&cat=574891>

02:59:45 Juan Sardina: Some are digitized. I found one I really wanted but all they have is the request for info, not the actual process. so not much detail :(

03:01:00 Juan Sardina: I am almost sure I have seen stuff about the Salazars in particular, but I am not sure if they were the ones for your line

03:03:01 Diogo Salazar: <http://pares.mcu.es/ParesBusquedas20/catalogo/find?nm=&texto=pleitos+de+hidalguia&idTC=All&idT=Juan+de+Salazar>